Empowering Women, Healing with Dignity

Stouh Beirut is developing a transformative Mental Health & Psychosocial Support (MHPSS) program for 30 vulnerable women and young ladies at its new center in Mount Lebanon.

As part of the Femmes du Soleil project, preparations are also underway to open a Women and family Health Clinic in Dhour Choueir

To make this possible, a fundraising campaign has been launched on the 1st of July with DEMAC under DRC with the participation of the Lebanese diaspora, bringing the global Lebanese community together to support medical and psychosocial care for women in crisis.

Stouh Beirut Launches “Flowers of the Sun” Boutique

Stouh Beirut proudly announced the opening of its new boutique, “Flowers of the Sun,” on July 9 at its headquarters in Ashrafieh-Sodeco. The launch was attended by friends, supporters, and cultural figures, including Mrs. Sahar Baassiri Salam, Vice President of the National Commission for Lebanese Women, Paolo Fontani, Director of UNESCO’s Regional Office in Beirut, and media personalities Joyce Akiki and Roula Safa, many diplomatic personnels and public figures.

The boutique offers handcrafted products and artistic pieces by Lebanese designers and artists showcasing its noble mission and part of the proceeds goes to support the association’s humanitarian programs.

President Dalia Dagher emphasized: “Flowers of the Sun is not just a boutique; it’s a space of hope and solidarity where creativity transforms into real support for urgent humanitarian causes.”

“Flowers of the Sun” Boutique Shines at Les Jardins du Mzaar Expo

Stouh Beirut’s “Flowers of the Sun” boutique proudly participated in Les Jardins du Mzaar Expo, from 1 till 17 August showcasing its handcrafted products and artistic creations. The boutique continues to transform creativity into tangible support for the association’s humanitarian programs, benefiting women, youth, and vulnerable communities.

Australian Embassy Partners with Stouh Beirut to equip the Mother and Child Department at Karantina Hospital

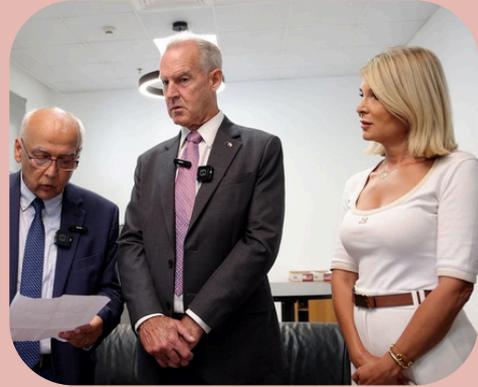

Beirut- August 7

In partnership with the Australian Embassy, Stouh Beirut has launched a new initiative to support the Mother and Child Department at Karantina Hospital.

The collaboration, announced in the presence of Ambassador Andrew Barnes, Stouh Beirut President Mrs. Dalia Dagher, Dr. Michel Matar, Head of the Administrative Council at the hospital, and the Ministry of Public Health representative Pamela Mansour, who valued this collaboration providing essential medical equipment to improve care for mothers and children in the governmental hospital.

Ambassador Barnes highlighted Australia's commitment to strengthening Lebanon's healthcare sector, while Mrs. Dagher considered that this partnership is a first step on the path of the women empowerment mission at Beirut paved by the "Femmes du Soleil" center in Dhour Shoueir.

LinkedIn Partners with Stouh Beirut to Empower Vulnerable Women

As part of its Habibi Initiative for the Middle East, LinkedIn has partnered with Stouh Beirut to support the Femmes du Soleil project, aimed at empowering mothers without support and vulnerable young women in Lebanon through psychosocial and professional development services.

On August 20, 2025, LinkedIn representatives visited the project site in Dhour Choueir, where participants took part in a hands-on workshop on using LinkedIn to develop career paths and find job opportunities.

The event was attended by local and international stakeholders, including Dhour Choueir Mayor Naïm Sawaya and Dr. Antoine Chedid treasurer of Les Toits de Beyrouth in Paris.

The collaboration marks a new milestone in providing safe spaces, professional training, and psychosocial support for women, highlighting the power of partnership and solidarity in tackling social and economic challenges.
